Personal blog post by Sam: "In essence, Jeremy Griffith's explanation of the human condition is allowing me to connect to the fact there is another world, a world beyond our human condition which buries so many of the most fundamental and wonderful truths about ourselves, our world and our true meaning and place within it...Without the benefit of Jeremy's insights I would have had a superficial and generally diminishing view of the #Dreamtime as a bunch of abstract, imaginative stories of how man, animals and the land were created. Now I get a small sense of how extraordinarily sensitive and connected #aboriginal races were to the land and surrounds in their natural state..."

Another World

Applying Jeremy Griffith's all-encompassing understanding of the human condition allows me to decipher the 'truths' embedded in Ainslie Roberts' paintings.

Sam Akritidis Great piece! I thoroughly enjoyed it. I totally agree. This new dimension of meaning and explanation that we can access thanks to the solidarity of Jeremy Griffiths complete package of scientific insight is simply breathtaking. Not a moment of life is ever without understandable significance once all the available knowledge behind the human condition is grasped by an individual. Now that its available to us all, I sincerely believe that inspired pieces like this will contribute to building our momentum out of the alienated condition that is presently engulfing our society and fuelling our upset.
